

What the Think College Centers Can do for YOU!

Danie Roberts-Dahm, PhD, Project Coordinator,
Think College Inclusive Higher Education Network

FCSUA Webinar – February 2023

The Think College National Coordinating Center and Inclusive Higher Education Network are projects of the Institute for Community Inclusion at the University of Massachusetts Boston. The Centers are funded by the US Department of Education, Office of Postsecondary Education, Grant #P407B15002 and #P407C210001.

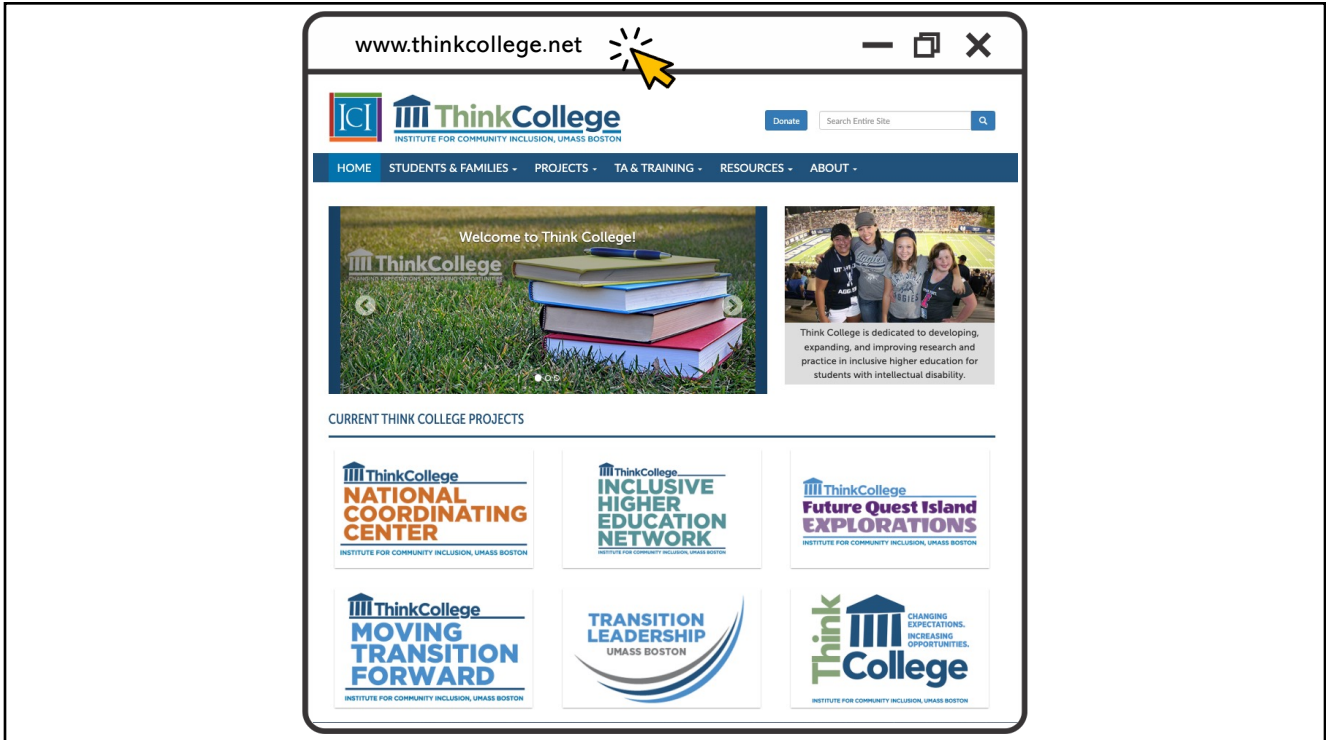

1

What is Think College?

Think College is a national technical assistance, research, and evaluation center dedicated to developing, expanding and improving higher education options for students with intellectual disability.

2

What are the Centers?

The Think College National Coordinating Center provides coordination, technical assistance, training, and evaluation for Transition and Postsecondary Education Programs for Students with Intellectual Disabilities (TPSID) and similar supports to other college programs for students with ID, transition professionals, families, and students.

Funded by the Office of Postsecondary Education, U.S. Department of Education, Grant No. P407B200001.

The Think College Inclusive Higher Education Network disseminates research and best practices for improving and expanding inclusive postsecondary education opportunities for students with intellectual disability through regional and national training, collaborative workgroups, and public awareness activities.

Funded by the Office of Postsecondary Education, U.S. Department of Education, Grant No. P407C210001.

HOW TO ThinkCollege

Issue No. 1 (Updated 2019) By Cate Weir

Conducting a college search is a daunting task for every family and every potential college student. All students need to think about factors such as the size of the college, its location, and whether or not to live on campus or at home (see Figure 1).

For students with intellectual disability (ID), there are some additional aspects to consider beyond the details you can learn in Think College Search. This resource provides questions, suggested by parents and students who have been through the college search process.

These questions may be answered by closely reviewing the college program websites, attending an Open House, or calling the program director. A great place to identify possible options is Think College Search, a searchable database of college programs on the Think College website. There you will find basic information on over 270 college programs for students with intellectual disability. Learn more about it on page 2.

CONDUCTING A COLLEGE SEARCH: QUESTIONS TO ASK COLLEGE PROGRAMS

This guide shares questions about important aspects of the college program, and are offered to help students and families learn as much as they can about program operations so they can make an informed choice about which college is best for them. Several questions are suggested in each of the ten areas below.

Resources by Topic

Here you will find curated resources on some of the most critical topics in inclusive postsecondary education. Each page features selected key resources, a link to additional resources we have on the topic in our Resource Library, related external links and Frequently Asked Questions on the topic. We see these pages as a great place to get started when exploring a topic. We welcome feedback and suggestions for additional resources or FAQs.

Academic Access
Inclusion is more than being "in." That's true on the college campus, too. College faculty and staff need support to deliver instruction to students with intellectual disability. Inclusive access to academics in college improves learning outcomes, and it also improves employment outcomes, increased community engagement, meaningful learning.

Accreditation
The National Coordinating Center is responsible to convene a workgroup to develop model program accreditation standards for college programs for students with ID. This work is ongoing but once completed, these accreditation standards will mean a certain level of quality can be expected from college programs serving.

Campus Housing
Though an integral part of the college experience, not all college programs for students with ID offer housing options for their students. Just as the programs themselves are diverse, so are the housing options, with completely inclusive arrangements to more specialized options. Learn the steps to establish campus housing.

Bonus: Each page also includes a direct link to a technical assistance provider!

These pages feature hand selected resources and information on some popular topics.
